The kennels just built and arranged by J. L. Frothingham at Westbury, L. I., will be sure to create much attention. In the heart of the Meadow Brook country Mr. Frothingham has pitched his tent in the midst of a neighborhood where ex-cellent and well bred hounds and dogs are the rule rather than the exception. What every boarding dog requires is a kennel free from draughts and damp and plenty of room to stretch his legs at a gallop. This he can do in the big yards and grass runs at Frothingham's. There is room aplenty in these capacious kennels.
